

How to Change Individual Track Names in Audacity

The purpose of this tutorial is to teach you how to change the title name of individual tracks in your Audacity project. This is a very helpful process that can help organize your audio tracks if you have multiple tracks in the same project.

1. Open the program Audacity. Open an existing Audacity project or create a new one by importing an audio clip from your computer's files.
2. Select the audio track you want to edit. To do this, click anywhere on your track box and it will be selected.
3. Click on the small drop-down arrow next to the track title. It is located in the grey box above the "mute" and solo" buttons.

4. A drop down menu will appear. From here, select "Name".

- From here, another menu will appear. This is where you can change the track name. Click BACKSPACE on your keyboard and type in your desired name. Then click "OK".
